AWFUL ATROCITIES IN CONGO STATE

Expedition Sent to Kill Natives Because Rubber Supply Falls Off.

LEADER ASSERTS HE HAD GOVERNMENT SANCTION

Renewal of Agitation in London Against the Terrible Crimes Perpetrated.

LONDON, Sept. 10 .- This autumn is expected to see great developments in the agitation against the atrocities in the Congo Free State. Meetings are being arranged all over the country, to commence in October. In all probability the Lord Mayor will preside over a great gathering in the Mansion-house. Tells a Tragic Story.

The Rev. J. H. Harris, of the Congo Baolo mission at Baringa, who has just returned to this country, has brought with him a vast amount of material in support of the charge against the administration. Mr Harris states that several of the officials known to be implicated in the report of the commission of inquiry are bolting from the Congo-with the suspected countyance of the Government of Belgium-and in an interview ho told the tragic but typical story of one affair which occupied the commission for a time, viz: the expedition conducted by M. Hannotte, the agent of the Abir com-pany, against Sambekota, and the arming of the Abir sentries with Albini rifles. Writing to the secretary of the commission, Mr. Harris gives with corroborative remarks of his own the story of a native

Account of Eye-Witness.

"I went with M. Hannotte when he made the raid on Eketa. I accompanied him as a paddler and then as a carrier inland. We anchored at the Samba beach and slept the first night at Samba itself. Next morning we started. We were armed with gune, and the Samba people accompanying us bore spears, shields, hows and arrows in order to assist. Towards evening we settled down in the forest for the night. Next day we surprised the Ekota people.

Killed Two Boys.

"We met two boys at the entrance to the town. These were killed, but M. Han-notte gave orders to kill only grown men in the future. The fighters went in every direction and killed a great many. At one place we saw a foot lying on the ground and M. Hannotte said, Throw It away."

"Further on we saw a murdered wo-man. M. Hannotte ordered her corpse to be thrown into the bush I saw at least five corpses, but many people were killed that I did not notice

"M. Hannotte himself saw many of the corpses. The dead bodies were cut up and eaten by the Sanba people and others with M. Hannotte's knowledge.

"The Chief Naumbo Ngengl came and made peace, agreeing in the future to bring us rubber.

"At the time of the visit of the Commission of Inquiry, M. Hannotte was," said Mr. Harris, "returning from Europe to the Congo. The Commission of Inquiry met him further down the river, and interrogated him with reference to the maladministration for which he was responsible.

"He replied to the commission, the secretary of which sent me his copy of depositions, saying:

Calls It Peaceful Expedition.

"I took part in no expedition against Sambekota and no Albino were taken. In the month of October I made a peaceful expedition to this village and others of the region. I had an except of five men armed with Albini riflies, and many car-

"On May 8 Dr. Vogt, the investigating magistrate, visited my station to make inquiries into the many atrocities that had been committed in that district, but he said before he entered that he wished to ask me a few questions with regard to the administration of certain individuals, but he said I must first pledge myself neither to publish nor to speak in public upon the matters to which he was about to refer.

Knew of Many Atrocities.

"I told him that I could upon no account give him such a pledge because I knew far more atrocities than had ever been brought to light, and it was quite likely that I knew already what he had in his papers. However, I did promise that I would not publish nor speak in public upon those matters not previously known to me.

"Then he said, did I know anything about M. Hannotte's expedition against certain villages, at which he killed a large number of people, and at which he forced his fighters with a pistol at their heads to eat the corpses of the people killed.

Didn't Know of Gun Part.

Didn't Know of Gun Part.

'I told him that I had already called the attention of the Commission of Inquiry to this affair. The only point of which I was in ignorance was that he held his pistol to the heads of his fighters to force them to eat the corpses. Dr. Vogt told me that this information had been obtained from the mouth of M. Hannotte himself while retailing this affair to some friends in Brussels or Antwerp during his furlough.

"How comes it that coincident with this M. Hannotte, who has been only a few months back from Europe, gets a warning to flee the country and does so with the sanction of the Congolese Government? Can it be accounted for in this way?

Had Government Permission.

"M Hannotte told me personally that he had the permission of the Congo Gov-crament to go and attack these people because the rubber supply had fallen off."

JUDGE THOMAS DEE LEFT LARGE ESTATE

Report of Administratrix Shows Twenty-Two Parcels of Land Owned by Decedent.

OGDEN, Sept 10.-The report of Annie T. Dec. administratrix of the estate of the late Thomas D. Dec. covering the real estate only possessed by the decedent at the time of his death, has been flied with the County Clerk. The document is a lengthy one, and embraces twenty-two separate parcels of real estate, practically all being in Weber county and the bulk being in the city of Ogden.

Ownership Divided. According to the instrument title in some instances stands in the name of others than the decedent, and in other instances there is shown a divided owner-ship, President C F Middleton of Weber stake appearing as part owner in several parcels.

Estate Not Appraised.

The names of Annie T. Dee and her six daughters and one son appear in the instrument as the heirs-at-law, but no appraisement of the value of the real estate has been offered, though the same may appear later.

Neither is there as yet any schedule of the personal property of the decedent. This consists of money, bank and other commercial stocks, and various bonds of the approximate value of $350,000.

SIMPLE LIFE AMERICANS

Gave Britishers Impression of Trying to Cut Down Expenses.

LONDON, Sept. 10 .- American million aires have been as thick as blackberries in London recently. For instance, five multi-millionaries slept at Claridge's hotel recently. Practically the whole of the first floor was given over to these American representatives of the House of Mammon. The millionaires who in-scribed their names on the hotel regis-magnate, whose fortune is estimated at $100,000,000.

George Westinghouse, the inventor and proprietor of the famous Westinghouse athrake, who is worth $50,000,000.

George Jay Gould banker and rajiway owner, worth $50,000,000.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, railway magnate and inventor, worth $10,000,000.

Harry Payne Whitney, banker and financier, $10,000,000.

A very simple sum in addition will demonstrate that the elevator boy at Claridge's has enjoyed the novel sensation of hotsting a quintette of capitalists representing about $250,000,000.

Though they occupied the entire first floor, the members of this millionaire quintette, a word from whom would shake the bourses of the world, led the simplest of lives at Claridge's. They entertained little, had few visitors, and paid few calls. So exclusive, so terribly select, was this little coterie of Croesuses that except for a daily drive in the park and a little shopping their days passed without event.

except for a daily drive in the park and a little shopping their days passed without event.

These millionaires made no attempt at a lavish display. Apparently they went to the other extreme and became adepts in the fine art of cutting down expenses. The wives of these mighty millionaires passed through the stately corridors of Claridge's wearing the plainest of gowns, while the sluplest of menus were adopted by the millionaires themselves.

Twice a day these men of money met at the table d'hote. A simple little dinner of a few courses was their favorite mealclear soup, a sole, a little game and sweets. No American dishes were served. Little wine was taken, Mr. Rockefeller's heverage being milk.

Conversation at these meals when the millionaires met at Claridge's was limited to discussions regarding the weather. Never by any chance did they touch upon the money market.

PIGMY IS ROBBED

"Sergeant, I've been robbed, and —"
the voice repeated.

Standing up on the rungs of his chair and looking over the wide desk, the sergeant saw a little bit of a man. He said he was Will Archer, and he admitted that he was only thirty-five inches tail.
"I was rehearsing with The Hables in the Wood' company last night," he said,
"and garted home on a Thirty-fourth car.
Two big loafers, who were three times as Turns on Gas.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—Ruined by disastrous financial ventures, Brewer Button, a former millionaire of Western Springs, Ill., committed suicide here today by inhaling illuminating gas in a roominghouse in Indiana avenue. Button came to Chicago five weeks ago, since when he has been speculating heavily on the board of trade. Two years ago Button was worth $1,200,600, but is said to have lost it all by speculation.

He left a letter addressed to the landiady of the rooming-house, asking forgiveness for the annoyance he was causing her and requested that he be buried in the potter's field, as he declared he was penniless.

FORTLAND, Me., Sept. 10.—Capt. E. E. Philbrook, who led the State campaign against the gypsy moth last year, will resume his duties about October 15, and Commissioner of Agriculture Gilman will push the war against the pest vigorously the coming fall and winter.

Steamers, cars and other vehicles have brought many millions from infected regions in Massachusetts, and when the leaves fall from the trees, later in the autumn, thousands of the gypsy moth nests will be discovered, and it will be then that the fight to save the trees for next year will be begun.

The last Legislature appropriated $500 for the work in Maine during the next two years.

County Clerk's Report of the Assessed Valuation Shows Large Increase.

WEBER COUNTY WORTH FOURTEEN MILLIONS

Nice Little Sum Is Lost by Dropping Fractions of Cents.

special to The Tribune.

OGDEN, Sept. 10 -- County Clerk David Mattson has completed his statements of the assessed valuation of property in Og-den City and in Weber county, prepara-tory to forwarding the same to the State Auditor.

The figures show a great growth in the assessed valuation both in Ogden and in the county of Weber.

The assessed valuation of property in Ogden alone is $9.905,699, that of Weber county, outside of Ogden, is $4.292,000 mcking a total for Weber county of $14,195,999.

Special Taxes Included.

Special Taxes Included.

The figures include a special sheep tax of 3 mills per head, and while the general levy is an average of 333 mills, it includes special road taxes in some of the districts adjoining Ogden.

The total assessment against Ogden City is $329,377.36, and the total for the city and county is $420,607.02.

Under section 2903 of the Revised Statutes, the county officers are instructed not to take into calculation the fractions of cents. Some interesting figures have been revealed by this. A calculation of the mills lost by this law shows that Weber county has lost $529,61 by dropping the mills, and of this sum Ogden City has lost $14,59.

MARKEL SPEAKS OF CANAL CONCESSION

Declares Everything Open and Above Board; Amount Involved Exaggerated.

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 10.-J. E. Markel, o whom has been let the contract for feeding the laborers on the Panama canal, said today that he was not surprized to know that other bidders for the Panama contract were dissatisfied, but stated that everything in connection with the letting of the contract was open and above board. He made this statement to Markel's Statement.

'I presume that some of the rival contractors who made bids were disappointed in not securing the job. That is the only xplanation I can give for their making charges of unfair dealing. Every detail of the entire transaction was open and above board and all the papers are on tile in New York, where they may be examined by the public at any time. There was not a suggestion of unfairness or dishonesty connected with the letting of the contract from beginning to end, and any statement to the contrary is absolutely absurd and maliciously false.

What Contract Involves. "The statement that the contract would amount to $50,000,000 is wrong. It will amount to about $100,000 a month, or from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 a year, for five years which is the life of the contract. We will have ten hotels, each of which will feed from 150 to 250 persons, and about 1500 white and 5000 colored laborers will be supplied. The ratiroad will construct the hotels, ten in number, two of which are now in operation and two more nearing completion. I shall leave for Panama September 25 and take with me several of my radiroad eating house superintendents." The statement that the contract would BOSTON, Mass. Sept. 10.—Charles E. Buck yesterday morning found on the beach at the Point of Pines an oyster shell with four large pearls in it. The pearls are said to be very valuable, but have not yet been assayed.

"Professor" Buck is the "animal man" at Point of Pines. While taking his customary walk on the beach he espled the oyster shell lying in the sand, smooth side up. He picked up the shell more from curlosity than from anything else, it looked a little different from the usual oyster shell and was considerably larger. What was his surprise, upon closer examination, to find incrusted in one end four large pearls of dazzling luster. The pearls are as large as peas and seem to be without a flaw.

Manager Joseph J. Raymond of the Pines offered $500 for the pearls at the first glance, and later raised it to $1000 if they came out of the shell in good order.

Commercial Bodies Advise Against Ratifying Anglo-Cuban Treaty.

GREATER PRIVILEGES THAN UNCLE SAM HAS

Most Important Grant Relates to British Warships in Cuban Waters.

HAVANA, Sept. 16 .- Two of the prinipal commercial and economic associations, responding to a confidential request made by the Foreign Relations committee of the Senate for advice as to whether the pending treaty between Cuba and Great Britain ought to be ratified, declared emphatically against ratification. The principal reason given is that Cuba's commercial interests are too inevitably bound to her great customer, the United States, to permit of granting for ten years such privileges to British ships and citizens as those named in the treaty.

Privileges to Warships. Another reason given is that the adoption of the treaty would allow privileges to British warships, as well us merchantmen, not warranted by the relations between Cuba and Great Britain and not permissible in view of the relations between Cuba and the United States.

States.

The latter reason is considered the most potent on account of the suspicion that the treaty, while ostensibly one of commerce, navigation and amity would in reality give to British warships greater privileges in Cuban ports than those given the United States by the cession of two naval stations.

United States Protested. The treaty was signed in May last, after the favored nation clause had been eliminated in consequence of representations made by Mr. Squires, the American Minister. The United States Government, on receipt of a report regarding the alleged objectionable features, made a persemptory representation against the leged objectionable features, made a per-imptory representation against the treaty. A copy of the treaty was then sent to Washington, since which time, ac-cording to a statement made to the As-sociated Press by Secretary of State O'Farrill, the United States Government has ceased its representations regarding

Regarded as Inimical.

It is known, however, that in Washington the treaty is regarded as inimical to the interests of the United States, not perhaps in a commercial sense, because it does not contain any tariff concessions, but in the broader political significance of allowing British warships equal rights in Cuban ports with those of Cuban warships, under plea of stress of weather or accident, thus giving to Great Britain greater privileges than those granted to the United States.

The Senate committee to which the treaty was referred confided it first to the Havana Chamber of Commerce and afterward to the Central Economic association.

Referred to Commercial Bodies.

Referred to Commercial Bodies.

The former reported to the effect that while the privileges and immunities granted appeared to be mutual they did not confer any real benefits on Cuba, which had few mercantile ships and no warships, while the extension of her shipping might be hampered by granting equal privileges to British ships. The chamber emphatically advised that Cuba do not concede that in cases of stress of weather or of accident both British merchant and British warships shall have the right of "abastercerse and pertrecharts". Spanish words signifying respectively to supply with provisions and with war supplies and ammunition.

No Neutrality Reservation.

No Neutrality Reservation. The chamber considered this to be in-mical to Cuban interests, especially as no reservation was made respecting the no reservation was made respecting the laws of international neutrality. The chamber also considered that it was unwise to conclude such a treaty with an over-sea power while no such treaty existed with the United States, especially when changes in the reciprocity treaty are advocated, which may include provisions for special reciprocal tariff privileges regarding goods carried in American and Cuban ships.

The other association has not yet submitted its formal report, but it strongly holds that the treaty is inimical to the interests of Cuba and the United States.

Claim Suspicion Unwarranted.

Claim Suspicion Unwarranted. Secretary of State O'Farrell, on the contrary, declares to the Associated Press that the treaty contains nothing inimical to the interests of the United States under any circumstances, and some other persons who are close to the Government assert that susplicion regarding the treaty is unwarranted.

Old Man Is Attacked as He Lay Asleep.

Asleep.

DELPHI, Ind., Sept. 10.—Fred Thompson aged 72. a prominent farmer and veteran of the Civil war, murdered his father-in-law, William Diminger, at the Thompson farm this morning. The crimewas one of the most deliberate and brutal in the history of Carroll county.

Diminger, old and enfeebled, went to the Thompson home to reside several months ago. He and Thompson quarreled frequently and on Tuesday night, after drinking together in this city all day, it is alleged, they came to blows.

Mrs. Thompson succeeded in pacifying the men and at midnight all retired, sleeping in the same room. At 3 o'clock Thompson arose, secured an old harrow tooth and attacked his sleeping companion, beating his head to a milp.

As he struck the fatal blows he coolly informed his wife that he was going to do the job completely and then go over to the home of his daughter. Mrs. Sherman Misner, who lived across the road, and murder the whole family. Mrs. Thompson fled from the house and warned Mrs. Misner.

No one approached the Thompson home until 8 o'clock this morning, when armed neighbors forced an entrance. The lifeless body of Diminger was found in a pool of blood on his bed.

After a search of three hours Thompson was found in a fence corner near his home fast asleep. He is now in jail, but steadfastly refuses to utter a word about the tragedy. Mr. Thompson is proprietor of the Thompson, a somewhat noted summer resort for veterans.

RUSSIAN UNIVERSITIES MAY BE REOPENED

Imperial Ukase Grants Autonomy Meeting Students' Principal Grievances.

ST PETERSBURG, Sept. 10 .- An im perial ukase is published this morning granting a liberal measure of autonomy to the universities, pending the elaboration of permanent regulations along the same lines. This is considered here as insuring the opening of the universities September 14 and the resumption of the educational life of Russia, which has been at a standstill, with all students and professors in the higher schools on strike, since February.

Professors Get a Show.

Professors Get a Show.

The ukase places the election of directors and deans of the universities, who have hitherto been appointed by the Minister of Education and were regarded as representatives of the hated bureaucratic class, in the hands of the university professors, thereby making these officials truly representative of university life.

The duty of seeing that academic education follows a normal and orderly course is entrusted by the ukase to professorial councils, to which has been confided jurisdiction over offenses by students. University inspectors, who formerly were considered a sort of secret police, are now responsible to the rectors and not to the Ministry, and a cause of many missinderstandings between the universities and the authorities has thereby been removed.

The ukase fails to give the right of as-sembly or to grant the other political demands for which the students have been agitating, but the placing of the government of the universities in the hands of the professors meets the prin-cipal grievances of the students in re-gard to purely academic life in which gard to purely academic life, in which the faculties and students are thoroughly in sympathy with each other because of their common efforts to remedy the grievances. grievances.

An Oklahoma girl advertised for a husband, and got him. The total expense for advertising, wedding outnit, etc., was 111. He died within a year, leaving her an insurance policy of $19,000. And yet some people claim that it doesn't pay to advertise.—Sparks (Okla.) Review. ITCHING DEVILS
